Cayton Maturin

I played football on my all boys team. I go to a magnate school in Hartford Connecticut. Not only did I play, but I played offensive left tackle, and defensive Nose guard. I played against boys twice my size, my freshman year. I wants to continue to play throughout high school, but due to a end of season concussion, I may not be able to play. A lot of people think I only played to prove people wrong, that said I couldn't do it, but I played for me knowing that I could do it. I never cared what they said, and just continued on to play the game that I've loved since I was a little kid. This was my first year playing football, and I was already up against guys that had played their whole lives, so I knew I would have to work to become the best I could be. Towards the end of the year is when I actually started in my JV games. At first it was just if someone got hurt, and by the last game of the season, I played the full game. It was our rivalry game against Stafford. Our Varsity team had lost the night before, then it was our turn. We ended up winning the game, the first time any part of our football team had beat them in 3 years. As I said earlier, that game I ended up with a concussion. It was the 1st quarter still, and I went down hard on my head. I knew what had happened as the headache grew throughout the rest of the game, but I couldn't step out. I knew I had to keep playing for my team. I played the rest of that game and didn't find out until four days later that I was put onto protocol. After the game my coach took me to the slide and knew what happened. He told me "Riley, for most of the guys on this team, they would have landed like that and stepped out as soon as it was over. You didn't hesitate to get back up and continue playing. That shows me that you have more heart than any of the guys on this team." We took our first JV team photo with everyone hyped up for the win. I knew being there, that we are a family. The next week our Varsity team was in the playoffs. We were playing against Rockville, my home town. They blew us out bad, but on the way home the team was still in a great mood. No one wanted to be sad when it was their last time playing together. Thats when I told our head coach that I might not be able to play next year. He said "I don't care whether You could play or not. You are still a part of this team, and will always have a seat on the bus, and a spot on the sidelines. I will always remember number 61." That's when I knew that I had developed a new family with that team.

Chevelle Bauman started playing ball at the T-ball level, then to coach pitch, followed by minor league, off to majors league and even Allstars, which were all for the Muncy Little League. She fell in love with pitching. Jenny Finch was this girls' role model. Going to Jenny Finchs softball camps was just what she dreamed about as a kid. Travel Fastpitch softball was introduced to her at age 9. One struggle for Chevelle was stamina. She knew she had to be able pitch an entire game, and at one point she couldn't, and to have a greatest amount of confidence in her circle. So her biggest goal for her self was to be able to pitch an entire game with the confidence needed to stay in the game both physically and mentally. Soon she would conquer the biggest goal she set. She is currently on a 14U travel Fastpitch softball team called Central PA Havoc. This year, 2020, was hard. With tournaments cancelling due to Covid-19, it was a set back for Chevelle and her teammates. But when that light turned green, it literally meant GO! CPAHavoc won several tournaments this summer, including USA States 2020 in State College, PA. Chevelle even pitched her first NO-hitter. Thank you for letting me tell you a little about my daughter, Chevelle.

I am a 44 year old mother and wife, with a full time career in surgical device sales, and an IFBB Figure Pro. I started my journey 7 years ago with one goal in mind, to turn pro, and to get on the Olympia stage. After my best friend and I were hit by a drunk driver at 20 years old, she unfortunately did not make it, I fell into a coma, and in the hospital for several months, I woke from that with a zest for life that can not be stopped. I've always worked out, crossfit, etc, but 7 years ago when I decided on the sport of bodybuilding, my goal was to turn pro, and then get on the Olympia stage with the best in the world. After engaging in the hard work, and discipline I didnt know I had, 7 national shows, I am proud to say I turned pro 2 years ago. Since then I've had an unbelievable journey in the top 10, top 5, and top 3 working my way to qualify for the Olympia stage. With Covid this year season got crunched with many shows canceled and the qualification time frame being from the first show that was held August, 1st, to the last qualifier October, 16th. I am proud to say at the first show, Tampa Pro, an extremely prestigious show, I had the honor of placing 4th, and collecting 6 points towards qualifying. 1st place gets automatic qualification, 2nd-5th get points with top 3 on points in October going. So now I get ready to compete Aug, 29th, Sept, 5th, and however many more times I need to with the goal to take 1st, the ability to take 1st, but the hope's to keep collecting points. I know I can do it, have an unbelievable coach, and an amazing support system with both my husband and son all believing in me, and knowing I belong up there December, 15th in Vegas.

Hayden Lawrence

Hayden started out late playing baseball. He started about 8 years old but he quickly fell in love with it. When he started he couldn't catch a ball, hit a ball, or run the bases very quickly. However, his love for it grew so much he practiced every single day. Even in the winter time. He began pitching the next season and quickly became one of the best on his team. The next season after that he was top batter, top RBI leader, and bases stolen. This led to him being MVP. He pitched a heck of a play off game that year for little league. He pitched 4 innings, 10 batters, 9 strike outs, and no runs allowed. He aged out of little league and moved onto high school ball at age 12. He played for the junior high team where they went without a single loss last year. This past January, he went to Florida to play in a baseball tournament and was one of the highlight players. His love and passion for baseball is one that you do not come across very often.
