Arianna Jones

In 3rd grade At age 9 she was asked to play in the girls basketball team because of her height. My daughter Arianna has always been outgoing and rambunctious but didn't think of herself as an athlete. Thankfully through her friends from school she found the courage and joy while she began elementary athletics. She has continued to ran cross country and play basketball. She has helped her cross country team compete at a state level because they placed fist in all their races and also helped the basketball team finish strong. This year she is in 6th grade and she is looking forward to running to basketball and to softball. She really enjoys running, it's now been her normal to be outside playing with her older brother/uncles running with her siblings. She's not into competition but jus to be out there helping someone to try new things is truly her passion.

Addyson Oliver

Addyson started playing t-ball at age 2. No child at that age has any idea of what they are doing. It was just adorable to watch. Fast forward 7 years and now you have an athlete. She has never wanted to leave the softball world. Addy has been with the Lady Raiders since she was 6. They work hard and play hard. They win as a team and lose as a team. She has played catcher and most of the time she is in left field. She just started pitching lessons with coach Jimmy 3 weeks ago and will be a force to reckon with when she puts it all together. The Lady Raiders won 2nd place in the National tournament in July of 2020 in Gulf Shores. When she is up to bat, everyone knows the "Addy bomb" is going to drop. She was also nominated to play in All-State this year. Her future goals are to be a pitcher, hit the ball over the fence, help her team win 1st place in Nationals or the world series and to play softball for the University of Arkansas.

Baya Green

Baya is a 9 year old soccer player at South Carolina United FC. She has been playing soccer for 5 years and is starting her 3rd year of club level soccer. Baya trains everyday to better herself and never gives up. When she first started club ball she had a lot to learn, she was on a combined team of 2011s (her age group) and 2010s. She was the very last 2011 to have a chance to play up in age with the 2010s. Instead of letting that hurt her, she let it DRIVE her. She looked at me and said I'm going to prove to my coach what I can do, they'll see! The next season Baya was pulled up for almost every 2010s game, and was almost pulled up and rostered with them. She is strong willed and a motivator for the kids around her. We decided to make the switch to a new club this season and being the new kid on the team is not always easy but Baya perseveres through it all. She keeps her head held high and continues to prove the type of athlete she is. Baya plans to continue to play soccer through college and her goal is be apart of the USWNT. Her favorite soccer player is Alex Morgan and she feels like she relates to how Alex plays. Baya is left footed and forward, but a valuable team player at any position on the field.

She practices 5 days a week. You can usually catch her at a tournament every single weekend. Her goals are to become a college softball player for USF. Her dream is to coach her own softball travel team one day. Her positive attitude, team leadership skills, always smiling face and go-getter spunk is what has helped make her the player she is today. Chloe would love to thank all of the coaches that have helped her along the way. Without all of them helping mold her...she would not be where she is today. My name is Emilio Lopez, I am 11 years old, from a small town Diboll, Tx. I play 12 U baseball for the MTG prospects. I have been a catcher since I was three years old. My love for baseball started early. I played prep T-ball starting at age 3, started travel ball when I was just 6 years old. It has always been just me and my mom. It's always been hard for her but she makes it happen. Her rules are to stay in baseball are to make straight A's. And here we are years later and I'm still playing. Grades come before baseball. If I am not working out, practicing or studying I constantly have a ball in my hand. My dreams are to play football for the Oregon Ducks and make my mom proud no matter where I go. I have never played football in my life, but ask me anything about the Dallas Cowboys and I can tell you stats and an awesome play from 10 years ago. I played basketball for a couple of years, until things got serious in baseball for me. I played soccer for a couple of years and that interfered with my travel ball. Any sport that I play, I will succeed. I will make my mother proud.

Yahir started joining his cousin's soccer games as spectator—he was 10.

His dad and uncle encourage him to play for the team, he was shy and his physical appearance/condition wasn't the best. Dad enrolled him to the club and he started his nightmare. At practices he was the slowest, the chubbiest, he didn't know how to kick the ball, he was bad and everyone knew it. I remember him crying because he didn't want to go but dad didn't want him to give up, we pushed him to do it, he was lucky if he played 3 minutes in any giving game. Yes, I was embarrassed when he missed a pass and he was always mad. I didn't know anything about soccer I don't know know much now but I remember that the coach told us to teach our kid how to play. He kept us out of the team chat, other parents talk to us and ask us if we were going to the game... me : what game? That happens several times and we left the team. I think Yahir was happy but. Dad wasn't so he checked other clubs, he was still pretty bad, his dad meet with the coach and talk to him about our son. Some coaches coach with their hear others coach well. Yahir wanted to pleased us (that was the beginning) coach was very strict with my son encouraged him to be better, train hard. We hired another coach on the side to teach him basics and boom he made and incredible change.

I remember that at his first game against his old team he was nervous and scared but he did great ,my son's new team won that game. Most of all he gained his confidence back, he was playing more and more, he'll played defense, middle, forward, goalie you name it he'll do great on any position. Everyone we knew from the old team was surprised and keep telling us that they didn't recognized the new Yahir. So for that year he was recognized as the MVP, he Was also awarded with an scholarship to attend Real Madrid summer camp at the end of the summer he was invited to experience Spain soccer in November 2018. We gave him the opportunity to experience the other level of soccer. He loved everything in Spain— when we got there they told us, in Spain you dream, you eat, you play, you study soccer.. and literally from 7-2 practice and games everyday from 4-6 it was the best experience ever. He also enjoy in person one of his favorites team game "Barcelona Atlético madrid. We visited a few stadiums, santiago Bernabéu, Wanda metropolitano, Rhe brand new Atlético madrid stadium. Than covid happened.
